

At Audi, we pride ourselves in delivering an outstanding customer experience to you and we welcome all feedback on how we can improve our service. We recognise, however, that despite our best efforts, from time to time a situation may arise whereby a customer is left dissatisfied with a product or service that we have provided. We therefore have a dedicated complaints process in place, outlined for you below:

Step 1: Notify your local Audi Centre:

In the first instance, we recommend contacting your local Audi Centre or the Audi Centre where you purchased/repaired your vehicle. Many complaints can be resolved in-house in an efficient manner. The centre will endeavour to resolve your complaint through their internal complaints-handling process, which may involve contacting Audi UK directly on your behalf.

You can find your local Audi Centre here: <https://www.audi.co.uk/locate-a-centre.html>

Step 2: Audi UK Customer Services

If you are dissatisfied with the outcome after speaking to your Audi Centre, we recommend contacting Audi UK Customer Services, whereby:

- A dedicated member of our team will be assigned to oversee your complaint and act as your point of contact. They will investigate the matter further and keep you updated on progress.
- A Customer Relations Manager may contact you to discuss your case in more detail. They may also make contact with the Audi Centre and request their involvement or ownership of the matter, if required.
- Your vehicle may need a thorough diagnosis at an Audi Centre, in which case we will require you to book your vehicle in.
- We aim to resolve all complaints within 10 days, however sometimes this may take longer depending on the complexity of the investigation.

In any event, you will be guided through the process by our dedicated Audi UK Customer Services team, who may be reached on any of your preferred contact channels below:
